BACKGROUND INFORMATION TO THIS CONFERENCE

“Human dignity is inviolable. It must be respected and protected”

- Article 1 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU (2000)

In a highly information and communications technology-based world, this fundamental human right and basic ethical principle is facing an increasing threat.

Over the last century, numerous illegal experiments have been performed on human test subjects without their consent and continue to this day in the European Union and beyond. Not only whistle blowers, activists and political opponents are targeted, but thousands of innocent civilians are also subjected to non-consensual testing and mind control experimentation with remote technology weapons and covert community harassment. Faced with an ever increasing number of citizens voicing complaints of being remotely tortured and/or experimented on, governments around the world have failed to acknowledge these human rights violations by ignoring them and often treating them as mentally ill.

To address this issue of global concern and stimulate the debate at the European level, the European Coalition against Covert Harassment (EUCACH) and the STOPEG Foundation (Stop Electronic Weapons Stop Gang Stalking), are now organizing the world's first ever Covert Harassment Conference.

Aspiring to provide a respectful environment for the voices of the victims referred to as Targeted Individuals, we hope that this unique event will bring together all actors concerned: medical, juridical, political and technology experts, as well as, press and media representatives, and the victims, with the shared objectives: (1) revealing the on-going non-consensual research, (2) assessing the scope of such unethical experiments at the European and the international level, as well as (3) looking for possible solutions to protect citizens from this covert abuse.

Join the debate and participate in finding appropriate legal and/or political solutions to protect everybody's right to life. Help us ban weaponry and methods endangering human health and life, as well as destroying the individuals' autonomy and dignity.

We look forward to welcoming you at the event.
